CELEBRATED 78th BIRTHDAY.
Mr. W. G. Huttell of Aberdeen celebrated his 78th birthday Wednesday. All his children, grandchildren and one great grandchild were present, except his daughter Jennie.

At noon was served an elegant dinner. In the afternoon and evening many of his old friends called to see him. All wish him many returns of the day.

RIDING RIGHT OVER THE FEDERALS.

Chicago, February 12.—Western league magnates, who gathered here today for their annual schedule meeting, reported that most of their players were signed for the ensuing season and that they are not in dread of an extensive Federal league raid. Vice President Edward J. Hanlon presided in the absence of President Norris O'Neill, who is traveling with the Giants and white Sox.

THIEVING SHANTYBOATMEN SELL STOLEN TOBACCO.

(Augusta Chronicle.)
The Chronicle has information to the effect that two men sold tobacco over the loose leaf market here on Thursday of last week, which, it is alleged, was stolen. According to this information, the tobacco was brought down the river in skiffs, bringing about $57. As soon as the men got the check for the tobacco they hurried to the bank and had it cashed, although an effort was made to stop payment. A man from the Dover vicinity came down the next day, thinking the tobacco belonged to him, but it did not. It seems to be the general impression that the men that sold the tobacco lived on a shanty boat up the river. The tobacco sold was of good quality, we learn. We are also informed that parties visited the Maysville markets about the same time, trying to locate stolen tobacco.

SHOULD PRESERVE HISTORIC BUILDING.

The old governor's mansion in Frankfort was built when the second governor—James Garrard, was in office and every governor of Kentucky has occupied it. Only one child, Eleanor Beckham, now 13 years old, has been born in the historic house. Thomas Metcalfe, afterwards governor, worked on the building as a stone mason.

14,000 POUNDS OF OHIO TOBACCO BRINGS 23 CENTS ON THE MAYSVILLE MARKET.

(Aberdeen Gretna Green.)
Silas B. Cahal delivered his crop of tobacco, of 14,000 pounds, to Thomas Malone, the Maysville tobacco dealer last week at 23 cents a pound. It brought quite a tidy sum, it was raised on the Perry Cahal farm on Straight Creek, Union township.

an atmosphere as lies within our power—our combined power. A child spends six hours a day for five days out of seven in this school building. This condition continues for nine or ten months out of twelve, from the age of six to eighteen years—granting the child takes the full course.
During the Teachers' Association meeting held here in November, I remarked to a visiting teacher that if I had the making of school laws, I should allow but twenty pupils to a teacher. In the First and Second grades in this building there are forty-four children in a room, 31 by 24 feet and one teacher. In the Third and Fourth grades there are forty-five children to one teacher in one room, 24 by 24 feet. Forty-five children crowded up as it were, with scarcely room to breathe, much less space in which to move! Some mothers find a room 16 by 16 not large enough to accommodate the activities of four children. And then we wonder why Miss So and So is so cranky and why Mary comes home so cross, and Johnnie will not be still. Is it just either to teacher or pupil not to give them every material advantage?
How much better results there might be in work, and what a saving of nerves if we allowed more space to the children and less children to a teacher!
What a contrast the crowded condition of the lower grades of our school to the principles of Montessori's system, the Italian apostle of the new "libertarian" education.
Do you mothers know that there are 80 non-resident pupils in this building; 61 in High School and 19 in the grades? This means that there are 19 children here during the noon recess of an hour and a half.
Besides the 19 country children, there are a few children from the East and West End.
The eating of lunch requires but a few minutes. The remainder of the time these children are free to do whatever their fancy dictates. Two years ago, when the High School pupils also were here at the noon hour, I took this matter up with our Superintendent, but without securing a supervisor. As I understand it, no one is obligated to look after the children left here during the mid-day intermission.
It is a matter of fact that the country patrons feel they are not shown the consideration by those in charge. If they make a complaint, they are told that it is the town mother's who must be considered; for these are in the majority. And yet one of our local papers stated the other day that the country patrons pay $3,000 annually into the schools.
But to leave figures and return to my subject—"Our Joint Responsibility." It is the nature of human beings to form their ideals and standards largely from those people and things among which they are thrown. Pause for a moment and think of the responsibility of you teachers.
Is the personal influence all you wish it to be upon the youths within these walls?
Do you stand in their eyes as the personification of what a Christian gentleman and gentlewoman, as we say in the South, should be? Surely your personality must count for something to the youth you train.
There are men and women living in Maysville today who carry the stamp of an influence so noble and far-sighted that the memory of the instructors of their youth falls upon them as a benediction along life's way.

SPLENDID MEETING
Of Central District Parent-Teacher Association.—Mrs. Alberta Glascock's Excellent Paper Appears Below
The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Central district was held at the High School Building Tuesday afternoon, February 9th.
There was a good attendance and the meeting was a very enthusiastic one. Mrs. G. W. Geisel read most delightfully James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "Dat Leetle Boy of Mine."
Mrs. Alberta Glascock read a very able and instructive paper. All present were much pleased with the efforts of these two ladies, and hope to hear from them again in the near future.
There was a general discussion in regard to lack of sufficient grade teachers, and other points relative to the betterment of the schools.
This association, under the lead of its efficient president bids fair to become an important factor in school affairs.

MRS. GLASCOCK'S INTERESTING PAPER.
"The Joint Responsibility of Parent and Teacher."
Madam Chairman, Ladies! When Mrs. Heeninger asked me to come to the Parent-Teacher League this afternoon, I answered by saying, "I shall be delighted to be present." And make us a talk," she continued.
"Oh, I do not know about that," I replied. "I would have stage fright before such an assembly of pedagogues."
"What is my subject to be?" I inquired. "Oh, just a heart to heart talk about the welfare of the children," and so I decided to come and talk about the "Joint Responsibility of Parent and Teacher."
I wonder how many of us have paused in the hubbub of life's duties and realized the responsibility involved in the rearing of one child. Some one said, "God could not be everywhere and therefore he made mothers."
If this be true, what a solemn obligation is ours! God is good, God is just, God is all-wise—ever loving and patient. If we stand as His agent, we must emulate Him—far be it from me to presume that a mortal mother could attain divine perfection, but it is not our duty, standing in His stead, to train our children as He dictates? It is an endless routine of vigilance—not only over the child, but over ourselves. It is the little things, after all which count.
"Little drops of water, Little grains of sand, Make the mighty ocean And the pleasant land." It is the little acts and thoughts well rounded, moulded a bit here and chipped off a bit there, which build character in the developing child. Have you ever listened to your child at play? Have you heard a word or caught an intonation or have you seen an ugly move, and suddenly remembered? I find that very thing yesterday, then you
